Chloroform Discovered by Chance

Chloroform, which has proved such an inestimable boon to thousands of sufferers, was discovered by chance. Dr. Simpson (who was afterwards knighted) set himself to find some anæsthetic to take the place of ether, which had gained a bad name owing to the fact that several deaths had occurred through the careless use of it. Other scientists joined him in his researches, and carefully analyzed every substance which they thought was in the least likely to give the desired result. One night the party were busily engaged in their self imposed task. They had tested every subject which had been selected for experiment without any thing approaching to a favorable issue and were beginning to feel disheartened thing else which might be put into the little testing glass with which each was tle of a dark substance which was looked upon more as a curiosity than as possess thought of success he poured a little of it into each of the tubes, and the members of the party began to inhale it. For a few moments they seemed seized with come by the powerful fumes. As they gradually came to again they recognized

Toachers and Certificates. The supreme court has recently made a decision in a case from Monroe county which will affect teachers and hoards of education throughout the state. It has been the custom for years for all teachers in the public schools of the state to be examined before the county superintendent, from whom it was required they were to obtain a certificate before they were permitted to teach. The board of education of Waterloo, in Monroe county, proposed to employ whom they pleased, without paying regard to certificates. A. J. Kuenster, a druggist, claimed their action was illegal and endeavored to restrain the board from paying the salaries to such teachers. The case was taken into the courts and the board was sustained by the circuit and appellate courts and now by the supreme court. If the law is as thus interpreted, boards of education may employ anybody to teach, egardless as to whether the teacher has certificate from the county superintend-

Une-Third of the Human Race. It is not generally known that Presumonia and Brouchitts carry off one-third of the human race, but ruch are the facts, and what is more surprising both of the above diseases result from neglecting a common ordinary Cold. A Cough should never be neglected. If fit is, every time you catch cold you cough harder, and it stocks by you longer. Ballard's Horehound Syrup is the best remedy in the world For Paeumonia, Bronchitts and sil Throat and Long troubles. of H. H. Harris die hard. Mr. Harris is the forger who was convicted in the Macon county circuit court. The jury brought in a verdict of guilty. Harris, This is the last day of service for the suprosching term of the circuit court who was at liberty under bonds, fled from which will begin on Monday, June 2d, the court room after hearing the verdict when Judge Vail will preside. There is of six years read. Judge Hughes sena good, fat docket of law, chancery and tended Harris to six years at Joliet in his absence, and subsequently Marshal Mason captured the fugitive in Kansas. Below is a list of the 18 prisoners con-He was brought back to Decatur, and fined in the county jail together with the taken hence to Joliet without having been resentenced. Later the Supreme Court ruled that Judge Hughes erred, and that Harris could not be legally sentenced unless he was in court in person to hear the sentence rendered. Accordingly he was brought to Decatur from Joliet, and he was formally entitled sentenced to Johet for six years on the verdict. Now comes the next move in the case. To-day Sheriff Mauzy got notice from the supreme court through Attorney Ray, of Champaign, counsel for Harris, that an effort is to be niade at once in the supreme court to secure Harris a new trial on an alleged error of the court. The notice is that E. F. Brown, W. T. Dillehunt, J. W. Woodford, seorge Leiby, of Decarur; C. L. Hadley, Austin. the case will come up at Springfield on Tuesday, June 3, and State's Attorney J. W. WONDERS OF THE NORTH. INTERESTING THINGS FOUND IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

There are a few very curious things about British Columbia rivers. Everyoody knows that they flow in the wrong direction while they are young. For instance, the Peace and Liard persist in going to the Arctic ocean, in defiance of the Rocky mountains and the laws of nature, while the Columbia, Fraser and Kootenay only consent to travel seaward after going in the opposite direction some hundreds of miles. But they also have very pecuhar ways of making ice, quite opposite to that laid down in the text books. In the Skeena I have observed the ice in autumn to form on the river bed among the bowlders in globules, like a mass of fish spawn, this often growing until the reef actually reaches the surface, but more often it breaks away in large pieces and floats off down stream, bearing pebbies and even bowlders for

There are many natural bridges on our rivers also. In the Kicking Horse, three miles below Field station, there is a rock clined so as to present sharp edges—very nupleasant to walk upon. Every observof ice bridges also. I think I have heard of one on the Homathco river, but of the Stickeen a marvelous story is told. There is a great glacier descending out of the high snowfield to the north, and this in ancient times flowed right across the valley, meeting a lesser lee stream from the heights opposite. The Stickeen flowed under the ice in a tunnel, and at very low water the passage was too small for it, although the water must have been banked up into a lake at the spring A SHATTERED TRADITION.

Now, the Sicane Indians of the upper calley used to regard this tunnel in the ice as leading to the "sweet by and hy." They were therefore very unx-ious to avoid the place. But once the lived over 20 years after their elevation tribe was encamped not far above the to the "Chair of St. Peter." Plus IX glacier, and there was a very old man and his wife with them who were too mean to die because of the expess of giving a funeral feast. They were very rich and of no use, and had large appetites, and their relatives at last consented to part with them. They were therefore et adrift in a leaky canoe and consigned to the current, and all the people, conscious of self sacrifice, stood on the bank and watched the cance vanish into the tunnel, and felt good. Now, the old people were very frightened and squealed good deal, but when the blue shadows of the ice closed over them they thought they were dead Indians, and behaved accordingly. Presently the old lady thought it was getting light, and became curious and looked about her. Then she kicked the old man and asked if he didn't wish they were at the funeral feast. He looked up and found the cance out in the open again, the glacier behind them, and the world pretty much as usual. They got ashore, cut paddles and poles, and prepared to go home again. The old man began to be hungry for the grease boxes; the old lady set her heart on grease and berries, and they both deternined to get home for the banquet, since they had assisted at the funeral. Well, by dint of making the old lady work, while he steered and gave good advice, they succeeded in making their way up through the tunnel and home, and were in ample time for the feast. In fact they lived happily every afterward. But how shall we condole with the relatives, whose sweetest and most plous traditions had een shattered about the sweet by

A DEEP GORGE

Not least among the natural wonders of the coast is McKenzie passage, a little to the westward of Kingcome inlet. It is a chasm about six miles in length, lending to the base of an isolated and broken reak, 5,665 feet high. The walls are verlose together, vertical and snow crowned. The sun never shines in this awful gorge; he vapor from its waters hangs dark and tter cold, unmoved by any wind, and to living being enters its solitude. I find but two records of this place having been visited by white men. Scarcely less. wonderful is an inlet tributary to Dean's canal.

Some of the tide shuices are very dan gerous, and many lives have been lost in them. A great puzzle they were to carly travelers, who found cataracts of sea water pouring into many of the inlets. They are explained by the existence behind them of large basins filled by the flood tide, the outlets being too small for its ready escape at the ebb. Some of these salt water cataracts are as much as twelve feet high. There is a minuature example at the gorge, near this city. On the Yukon river the upper waters are rendered quite clear by the deposit of all their silt in a chain of lakes, but lower down a stream called. White river enters from the south, so charged with glacier mud that the Yukon from thence to the sea is too dirty for even the bottom of a conful to be distinguished. Graylings rise readily to the fly above no fishing without nets is possible below. Moreover, where the great river crosse the Arctic circle the tributaries from the undra lands are like rivers of tea, so
